

Portland, Ore., Oct. 6.—Rep- main motive, which from the be- everywhere essential for genuine dem- domination of incompetent politi- development and productivity un- to the common good. "To function, velopment of life, and we therefo-development of life, and we therefore demand in behalf of the masses that our people be the only course that can make possible the satisfaction of our ambition, the achievement of our ideal, and the preservation of our essential liberties.

"American industry can not continue to flourish in the face of such a fear incompetence.

"We call upon all those who have eyes to see to join us in a great crusade for the preservation of our liberties and the achievement of our ideal."

"We commit ourselves to greater efforts to the organization of workers."

"We urge upon all useful persons the imperative need of organization, and finally, the coming together of working bodies of all organizations through representatives who shall speak for organized groupings."

"We have long been on the road to this end. We urge no new formula, no new philosophy."

"We urge only a greater consciousness of purpose and a definite aim on the part of all toward the more rapid fulfillment, because the needs of the time make it imperative."

Trade Union "Amalgamators" Are Masked Communist Revolutionists

"It should not be forgotten that advocates of the revolutionary program who are seeking to bring about the destruction of the American trade union movement through their so-called program of 'amalgamation' are hostile to every guarantee of freedom which American labor holds fundamental.

"They are hostile to freedom of speech, freedom of press and freedom of assembly.

They advocate the destruction, abrogation of the entire bill of rights upon which modern freedom is based. They repudiate democracy as a proclamation without shame or hesitation of their desire for the establishment of dictatorship over the wage earners.

"Instead, the program is one complete and thorough disastrous solution, for the establishment of autocracy to replace the democracy under which our present status has been achieved.

"Our trade union movement must be maintained intact at the highest degree of efficiency and solidarity in order to most effectively deal with the great problems with which we are confronted.

"The trade union movement must keep its experience and in accordance with the requirements of its membership will develop as it has in the past along evolutionary lines, achieving

It will resist to the utmost the signs of self-seekers and of the advocates of revolution."

Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—"The right to free contract, the right to work or not to work, the right to advise or not to advise," personnel of the supreme court is either be made up of those who interpret democracy as democracy manda, or else the personnel of

"Whether the same be in public or private service, whether the laborer act as an individual or en masse, the discrimination shall be for no cause."

interpretation Webster by courts legislature that denies labor in singular or plural (fundamental do not rest on grammar—those rights were born long before grammar invented) to work or not to work he or they will is a contravention: the constitutional guarantee of freedom of contract, a violation of very first precept of the fundamental right of free men."

the guise of reform and deliver from evil, can but lead into greater confusion and more hopeless entanglements.

"Our national life today is becoming more and more industrial.

The decisions that most vitally affect the intimate daily lives of people are the decisions that are made in industry, in the workshops and Portland, Ore., Oct. 8.—Industry is menaced by the political state. It is threatened by the invasion of "unscrupulous political bodies."

"The decisions that quickened wheels and brought men and women back into service were not decisions of congress.

"They were decisions reached in industry, and are beyond the purview of the political state.

"The largest freedom of action for freest play for individual initiative and genius in industry can not be under the shadow of constant and potent political interference, meddling and restriction.

"Industry must bring order to its constructive, or it will have a destructive effect, which will be detrimental to the state.

"Our people can not live and t under the regime of bureaucracy threatens unless industry solve

"Trade unionism must lead the way for true progress even at the cost of being branded as reactionary by those who do but little save propound formulas based upon utopian theories and devoid of the benefit of experience and of any cognizance of our fundamental social structure, our individual life or our national characteristics."